

Full stack web developer (m/f) wanted with passion to join a visionary start-up and create the next impact unicorn

Location: Germany (Munich)

We envision a world in which people never stop doing the “thing” which defines them and see life as an ongoing discovery of fulfilling activities– mastering all life transitions. We are zentor, a team of fun and seasoned professionals that came together to create something meaningful.

zentor is your personal mentor for a fulfilling life – simplifying life’s transitions. Our digital platform allows users to dream big again, explore, join and create activities, to find like-minded individuals, and pursue a purposeful life.

We build this not just for the lives of our parents, friends and future selves, but believe we can help prevent a global epidemic in society – loneliness and depression in later life. To create this impact unicorn, we are looking for a kick-ass developer who shares our mission and helps us take our MVP to an exciting and intuitive solution.

Are you a top-notch and creative full stack developer that wants to do good?

Then joins us and become our first major hire to help us build the following:

- A web platform to handle multiple frontends, manage profiles, drive engagement, interface with databases, match profiles (ML/AI), etc.
- Multi-point front-ends (likely including voice) with intuitive and awesome looking UX
- A database of activities, combining existing sources and user entries
- A cloud-based tech stack architecture & data strategy (GDPR compliant)

Skills required

- Several years of experience as a full stack web/generalist developer (preferably Vue.js, Firebase/store, etc.)
- Focus on web platform, web apps, and API development
- Experience in AI/ML
- Very good understanding of databases and cloud architecture
- A passion for great UX, ideally in B2C business; experience in Voice UIs is a plus
- Ideally experience with Dev Ops and Micro services

What we offer

- A great team with decades of experience & a great start-up network in UK & DE
- A chance to become the future CTO of our company, shape the next big thing, and create an impact unicorn
- The passion for a meaningful cause and a long-term perspective
- The spirit to disrupt an industry globally (starting with Germany & UK)
- Options in the company, and attractive compensation once we secured financing (currently getting very good signals from various investors)

Please contact us: valentin@zentor.me